NIOBE in Distress for her Children slain by APOLLO, from Ovid's Metamorphoses, Book VI. and from a view of the Painting of Mr. Richard Wilson.

- 1 APOLLO's wrath to man the dreadful spring
- ² Of ills innum'rous, tuneful goddess, sing!
- ³ Thou who did'st first th' ideal pencil give,
- ⁴ And taught'st the painter in his works to live,
- 5 Inspire with glowing energy of thought,
- ⁶ What Wilson painted, and what Ovid wrote.
- 7 Muse! lend thy aid, nor let me sue in vain,
- ⁸ Tho' last and meanest of the rhyming train!
- 9 O guide my pen in lofty strains to show
- 10 The Phrygian queen, all beautiful in woe.
- 11 'Twas where Maeonia spreads her wide domain
- 12 Niobe dwelt, and held her potent reign:
- 13 See in her hand the regal sceptre shine,
- 14 The wealthy heir of Tantalus divine,

- 102 -

- 15 He most distinguish'd by Dodonean Jove ,
- ¹⁶ To approach the tables of the gods above:
- 17 Her grandsire Atlas , who with mighty pains
- 18 Th' ethereal axis on his neck sustains:
- ¹⁹ Her other gran sire on the throne on high
- 20 Rolls the loud-pealing thunder thro' the sky.
- 21 Her spouse, Amphion , who from Jove too springs,
- ²² Divinely taught to sweep the sounding strings.
- 23 Seven sprightly sons the royal bed adorn,
- 24 Seven daughters beauteous as the op'ning morn,
- 25 As when Aurora fills the ravish'd sight,
- ²⁶ And decks the orient realms with rosy light
- 27 From their bright eyes the living splendors play,
- 28 Nor can beholders bear the flashing ray.
- 29 Wherever, Niobe , thou turn'st thine eyes,
- 30 New beauties kindle, and new joys arise!
- 31 But thou had'st far the happier mother prov'd,
- ³² If this fair offspring had been less belov'd:

- 33 What if their charms exceed Aurora's teint,
- ³⁴ No words could tell them, and no pencil paint,
- 35 Thy love too vehement hastens to destroy
- ³⁶ Each blooming maid, and each celestial boy.
- 37 Now Manto comes, endu'd with mighty skill,
- ³⁸ The past to explore, the future to reveal.
- 39 Thro' Thebes' wide streets Tiresia's daughter came,
- 40 Divine Latona's mandate to proclaim:
- ⁴¹ The Theban maids to hear the orders ran,
- 42 When thus Maeonia's prophetess began:
- 43 "Go, Thebans! great Latona's will obey,
- ⁴⁴ "And pious tribute at her altars pay:
- ⁴⁵ "With rights divine, the goddess be implor'd,
- ⁴⁶ "Nor be her sacred offspring unador'd."
- 47 Thus Manto spoke. The Theban maids obey,
- ⁴⁸ And pious tribute to the goddess pay.
- ⁴⁹ The rich perfumes ascend in waving spires,
- 50 And altars blaze with consecrated fires;
- 51 The fair assembly moves with graceful air,
- 52 And leaves of laurel bind the flowing hair.

- 104 -

- 53 Niobe comes with all her royal race,
- 54 With charms unnumber'd, and superior grace:
- 55 Her Phrygian garments of delightful hue,
- ⁵⁶ Inwove with gold, refulgent to the view,
- 57 Beyond description beautiful she moves
- 58 Like heav'nly Venus, 'midst her smiles and loves:
- 59 She views around the supplicating train,
- 60 And shakes her graceful head with stern disdain,
- 61 Proudly she turns around her lofty eyes,
- 62 And thus reviles celestial deities:
- ⁶³ "What madness drives the Theban ladies fair
- ⁶⁴ "To give their incense to surrounding air?
- ⁶⁵ "Say why this new sprung deity preferr'd?
- ⁶⁶ "Why vainly fancy your petitions heard?
- 67 "Or say why Coeus' offspring is obey'd,
- ⁶⁸ "While to my goddesship no tribute's paid?
- ⁶⁹ "For me no altars blaze with living fires,
- ⁷⁰ "No bullock bleeds, no frankincense transpires,
- ⁷¹ "Tho' Cadmus' palace, not unknown to fame,
- 72 "And Phrygian nations all revere my name.

- ⁷³ "Where'er I turn my eyes vast wealth I find.
- ⁷⁴ "Lo! here an empress with a goddess join'd.
- 75 "What, shall a Titaness be deify'd,
- ⁷⁶ "To whom the spacious earth a couch deny'd?
- "Nor heav'n, nor earth, nor sea receiv'd your queen,
- ⁷⁸ "Till pitying Delos took the wand'rer in.
- 79 "Round me what a large progeny is spread!
- 80 "No frowns of fortune has my soul to dread.
- ⁸¹ "What if indignant she decrease my train
- 82 "More than Latona's number will remain?
- ⁸³ "Then hence, ye Theban dames, hence haste away,
- 84 "Nor longer off'rings to Latona pay?
- 85 "Regard the orders of Amphion's spouse,
- ⁸⁶ "And take the leaves of laurel from your brows."
- 87 Niobe spoke. The Theban maids obey'd,
- 88 Their brows unbound, and left the rights unpaid.
- ⁸⁹ The angry goddess heard, then silence broke
- 90 On Cynthus' summit, and indignant spoke;

- 106 -

- 91 "Phoebus! behold, thy mother in disgrace,
- ⁹² "Who to no goddess yields the prior place
- ⁹³ "Except to Juno's self, who reigns above,
- ⁹⁴ "The spouse and sister of the thund'ring Jove.
- 95 "Niobe , sprung from Tantalus , inspires
- ⁹⁶ "Each Theban bosom with rebellious fires;
- ⁹⁷ "No reason her imperious temper quells,
- ⁹⁸ "But all her father in her tongue rebels;
- ⁹⁹ "Wrap her own sons for her blaspheming breath,
- 100 "Apollo! wrap them in the shades of death."
- 101 Latona ceas'd, and ardent thus replies
- ¹⁰² The God, whose glory decks th' expanded skies.
- ¹⁰³ "Cease thy complaints, mine be the task assign'd
- ¹⁰⁴ "To punish pride, and scourge the rebel mind."
- 105 This Phoebe join'd. -- They wing their instant flight;
- 106 Thebes trembled as th' immortal pow'rs alight.
- 107 With clouds incompass'd glorious Phoebus stands;
- ¹⁰⁸ The feather'd vengeance quiv'ring in his hands.

- 109 -

110 Near Cadmus' walls a plain extended lay,

- 111 Where Thebes' young princes pass'd in sport the day:
- ¹¹² There the bold coursers bounded o'er the plains,
- ¹¹³ While their great masters held the golden reins.
- 114 Ismenus first the racing pastime led,
- 115 And rul'd the fury of his flying steed.
- ¹¹⁶ "Ah me," he sudden cries, with shrieking breath,
- ¹¹⁷ While in his breast he feels the shaft of death;
- 118 He drops the bridle on his courser's mane,
- ¹¹⁹ Before his eyes in shadows swims the plain,
- 120 He, the first-born of great Amphion's bed,
- 121 Was struck the first, first mingled with the dead.
- 122 Then didst thou, Sipylus , the language hear
- ¹²³ Of fate portentous whistling in the air:
- 124 As when th' impending storm the sailor sees
- 125 He spreads his canvas to the fav'ring breeze,

- 108 -

- 126 So to thine horse thou gav'st the golden reins,
- 127 Gav'st him to rush impetuous o'er the plains:
- 128 But ah! a fatal shaft from Phoebus' hand
- 129 Smites through thy neck, and sinks thee on the sand.
- 130 Two other brothers were at wrestling found,
- 131 And in their pastime claspt each other round:
- 132 A shaft that instant from Apollo's hand
- 133 Transfixt them both, and stretcht them on the sand:
- 134 Together they their cruel fate bemoan'd,
- 135 Together languish'd, and together groan'd:
- 136 Together too th' unbodied spirits fled,
- 137 And sought the gloomy mansions of the dead.
- 138 Alphenor saw, and trembling at the view,
- 139 Beat his torn breast, that chang'd its snowy hue.
- 140 He flies to raise them in a kind embrace;
- 141 A brother's fondness triumphs in his face:
- 142 Alphenor fails in this fraternal deed,
- 143 A dart dispatch'd him (so the fates decreed:)

- 109 -

- 144 Soon as the arrow left the deadly wound,
- 145 His issuing entrails smoak'd upon the ground.
- 146 What woes on blooming Damasichon wait!
- 147 His sighs portend his near impending fate.
- ¹⁴⁸ Just where the well-made leg begins to be,

- 149 And the soft sinews form the supple knee,
- 150 The youth sore wounded by the Delian god
- 151 Attempts t' extract the crime-avenging rod,
- 152 But, whilst he strives the will of fate t' avert,
- 153 Divine Apollo sends a second dart;
- 154 Swift thro' his throat the feather'd mischief flies,
- 155 Bereft of sense, he drops his head, and dies.
- 156 Young Ilioneus , the last, directs his pray'r,
- 157 And cries, "My life, ye gods celestial! spare."
- 158 Apollo heard, and pity touch'd his heart,
- 159 But ah! too late, for he had sent the dart:
- 160 Thou too, O Ilioneus , art doom'd to fall,
- 161 The fates refuse that arrow to recal.

- 110 -

- 162 On the swift wings of ever-flying Fame
- 163 To Cadmus' palace soon the tidings came:
- 164 Niobe heard, and with indignant eyes
- ¹⁶⁵ She thus express'd her anger and surprize:
- 166 "Why is such privilege to them allow'd?
- 167 "Why thus insulted by the Delian god?
- ¹⁶⁸ "Dwells there such mischief in the pow'rs above?
- 169 "Why sleeps the vengeance of immortal Jove?
- 170 For now Amphion too, with grief oppress'd,
- 171 Had plung'd the deadly dagger in his breast.
- 172 Niobe now, less haughty than before,
- 173 With lofty head directs her steps no more.
- 174 She, who late told her pedigree divine,
- 175 And drove the Thebans from Latona's shrine,
- 176 How strangely chang'd! -- yet beautiful in woe,
- 177 She weeps, nor weeps unpity'd by the foe.
- 178 On each pale corse the wretched mother spread
- 179 Lay overwhelm'd with grief, and kiss'd her dead,
- 180 Then rais'd her arms, and thus, in accents slow,
- 181 "Be sated cruel Goddess! with my woe;

- 111 -

- ¹⁸² "If I've offended, let these streaming eyes,
- 183 "And let this sev'nfold funeral suffice:
- ¹⁸⁴ "Ah! take this wretched life you deign'd to save,
- 185 "With them I too am carried to the grave.
- 186 "Rejoice triumphant, my victorious foe,
- ¹⁸⁷ "But show the cause from whence your triumphs flow?
- 188 "Tho' I unhappy mourn these children slain,
- 189 "Yet greater numbers to my lot remain."

- 190 She ceas'd, the bow-string twang'd with awful sound,
- 200 Which struck with terror all th' assembly round,
- 201 Except the queen, who stood unmov'd alone,
- 202 By her distresses more presumptuous grown.
- 203 Near the pale corses stood their sisters fair
- ²⁰⁴ In sable vestures and dishevell'd hair;
- One, while she draws the fatal shaft away,
- ²⁰⁶ Faints, falls, and sickens at the light of day.
- 207 To sooth her mother, lo! another flies,
- 208 And blames the fury of inclement skies,
- 209 And, while her words a filial pity show,
- 210 Struck dumb -- indignant seeks the shades below.

- 112 -

- 211 Now from the fatal place another flies,
- ²¹² Falls in her flight, and languishes, and dies.
- 213 Another on her sister drops in death;
- 214 A fifth in trembling terrors yields her breath;
- ²¹⁵ While the sixth seeks some gloomy cave in vain,
- 216 Struck with the rest, and mingl'd with the slain.
- ²¹⁷ One only daughter lives, and she the least;
- ²¹⁸ The queen close clasp'd the daughter to her breast:
- "Ye heav'nly pow'rs, ah spare me one," she cry'd,
- ²²⁰ "Ah! spare me one," the vocal hills reply'd:
- In vain she begs, the Fates her suit deny,
- ²²² In her embrace she sees her daughter die.
- 223 *, ^{auth1} "The queen of all her family bereft,
- "Without or husband, son, or daughter left,
- ²²⁵ "Grew stupid at the shock. The passing air
- ²²⁶ "Made no impression on her stiff'ning hair.

- 113 -

- ²²⁷ "The blood forsook her face: amidst the flood
- ²²⁸ "Pour'd from her cheeks, quite fix'd her eye-balls stood.
- ²²⁹ "Her tongue, her palate both obdurate grew,
- ²³⁰ "Her curdled veins no longer motion knew;
- ²³¹ "The use of neck, and arms, and feet was gone,
- ²³² "And ev'n her bowels hard'ned into stone:
- ²³³ "A marble statue now the queen appears,
- "But from the marble steal the silent tears."
